the switch between different methods without a spell of non-use, even between traditional and modern, involves too few women in the sample.

increased medication adherence researchers calculated adherence rates for topical pga use 18 months before