I had a large sized sore on the side of my nose, diagnosed as impetigo.

Last year I told you about nine different diabetes studies, and each one showed a clear link between high magnesium levels and significantly reduced risk of developing type 2 diabetes.