the researchers speculated that particle flux accrued inside the satellites over time, generating a harmful this project required the designer to make a series of decisions related to structure, balance, contrast and mood you have to keep after your doctor to find the combination that works for you one explanation is that they are a little like patients waiting to give blood, tired of the excruciating wait and just hoping to be done with it